Author of

Many Voices, One Echo

Many Voices, One Echo, is for any woman who has ever worked as a clerical in an office, any office. Many Voices, One Echo is about young female insurance industry clericals in Hartford CT during the 1960s and how they changed in a changing society. This is the story of women who did not get to drop out or go to college because they had to earn a living, yet they changed in a changing society.

Mikki Karotkin knows these stories personally due to her many years as a clerical in many different offices, in both the private and public sectors. She is a 1978 graduate of Hampshire College in Amherst, MA with a degree in English/Cultural Anthropology.
